GOVERNOR SIDNEY McMATH

The State of Arkansas' first citizen is a 1936 graduate of the university. He virtually, in one long stride, stepped from the presidency of Associated Students in 1936 to Governor of the state in 1948.

Governor McMath was elected in 1948 as the youngest governor in the history of the State of Arkansas. He was reelected in 1950 for his second term.

During his energetic administration as governor a multi-million dollar highway building program has been instituted, a new governor's mansion has been built and much nationwide publicity has been brought to the state through the governor's out-of-state addresses.

While still in school at the university, the governor was very active in campus organizations and in 1935 he was business manager of the Razorback. Upon his graduation, he carried with him his interest in the goings-on on the Fayetteville campus even while serving as an officer with the United States Marines on Guadalcanal and throughout the Pacific. Having returned home at the end of the war, Governor McMath, on a veteran's ticket, ran for Prosecuting Attorney in his home town of Hot Springs and unseated an old, established political organization there. From this post he was elected Governor.

BOARD of TRUSTEES

The University of Arkansas Board of Trustees is composed of ten citizens of the State, who are appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the State Senate. Each member is appointed for a ten-year term, except when a person is appointed to complete an unexpired term. One regular term expires each year.

The ten members of the present Board of Trustees, together with their home addresses and the date of expiration of their terms, are: Joe Hardin, Grady, 1952; P. E. Murphy, Junction City, 1953; Raymond Orr, Fort Smith, 1954; Dr. C. A. Rosenbaum, Little Rock, 1955; W. W. Sharp, Brinkley, 1956; W. T. Jones, Madison, 1957; Jack Stephens, Little Rock, 1958; Henry S. Yocum, El Dorado, 1959; Miss Pauline Hoeltzel, Little Rock, 1960; Clifford L. Smith, North Little Rock, 1961.

Judge Yocum is the chairman of the Board and has the longest record of service on the board, having been named to the Board in 1939.

The newest member of the Board is Dr. Rosenbaum, who was named in the fall of 1951 to succeed Herbert L. Thomas of Fayetteville, resigned.

Miss Hoeltzel, the only woman member of the Board, is the third woman to serve in that capacity in the history of the University.

The members of the Board represent a cross-section of Arkansas professions and industry.

Mr. Yocum and Mr. Sharp are practicing attorneys. Mr. Murphy is a banker, and Mr. Jones is a merchant. Mr. Hardin is a farmer and is president of the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation. Mr. Smith is manager of a farm cooperative organization. Mr. Orr is president of a mining and smelting company, and Dr. Rosenbaum is a physician. Mr. Stephens is an investment company official, and Miss Hoeltzel is head of the Department of English at Little Rock Junior College.

VICE PRESIDENT and TREASURER

T. C. Carlson, Vice-president in charge of Finances, heads the Business Office of the University and administers the four million dollars yearly budget of the University.

Finances of the University at Fayetteville, the School of Medicine at Little Rock, the agricultural experiment stations, and the Agricultural Extension Service at Little Rock are controlled by the Business Office.

Its activities include purchasing, budget control, receipt and disbursement of funds, accounting and financial reports, auditing, and supervision of the many business enterprises involved in the operation of the University.

The income of the University is derived from federal funds, the state legislature, student fees, interest on endowment funds, and various other sources.

T. C. CARLSON, Vice President and Treasurer

COLLEGE of ARTS and SCIENCES

In addition to the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Science degrees, the College of Arts and Sciences offers degrees in architecture, journalism, music, and social welfare. Superior grades in any of these schools will grant a student membership in Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic honor society, established here in 1931.

For the past several years the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences has been experimenting with various integrated courses. It has now adopted a revised General Education curriculum which will go into effect next year.

Dean Guerdon D. Nichols was appointed to his present position in 1947, after teaching mathematics at the university since 1927. Before coming here, he taught at the Colorado School of Mines. He got his B.A. from the University of Iowa, and holds the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Nebraska.

G. D. NICHOLS, Dean, Arts and Sciences

L. S. ELLIS, Dean, Agriculture

COLLEGE of AGRICULTURE

Teaching the sciences and arts of Agriculture and home economics is the primary function of the College of Agriculture on the campus, but another duty is its program of research and extension education for the betterment of agriculture.

This year, the college was given the task of establishing in Panama a program of agricultural research and education. Financed by the Point IV Program, the project will bring agriculture in Panama from its present primitive level and set it on a modern plane. A team composed of scientists and teachers from the Experiment Station and Extension staffs has been sent there and the work is underway.

The project is under the direct supervision of Dean Lippert S. Ellis who heads all activities of the College of Agriculture. Dean Ellis received his B.S. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Wisconsin.

P. W. MILAM, Dean, Business Administration

COLLEGE of BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The College of Business Administration was organized as a four-year college in 1937, having operated as a two-year senior division school for eleven years.

In the realm of four-year curricula, more than fifty specialized courses are offered in addition to the basic sophomore and freshman classes. Major departments are: marketing, general business, accounting, insurance, finance, management, economics, and business teacher training. It awards the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration to students who meet the specific requirements.

Dean of the College of Business Administration and a native Arkansan is Paul W. Milam. Dean Milam received his bachelor's degree at State College, San Marcos, Texas. His master's degree is from the University of Texas, and his doctor's degree from New York University. Dr. Milam was made dean of the College of Business Administration in 1934.

COLLEGE of EDUCATION

Talk of adopting the Ford Foundation program for teacher education in Arkansas has undoubtedly made the College of Education the most talked about college this past year.

Under this plan, which has brought considerable controversy from across the state, a teaching degree would be awarded on completion of five years of training—four years of liberal arts work and a fifth year of teaching under supervision of a master teacher. The entire program has the backing of the Ford Foundation's millions.

The man sparkplugging the Ford Foundation program for Arkansas is none other than the dean of the college, Dr. Henry Kronenberg, a native of South Haven, Minn., and dean of the college since July, 1945.

A separate college since 1917, the College of Education has three main divisions: elementary and secondary education, vocational education, and physical education.

H. H. KRONENBURG, Dean, Education

COLLEGE of ENGINEERING

The College of Engineering has a three-fold purpose: to train men for professional engineering, for the industries, and for citizenship. To accomplish this purpose, the college offers a general course of study along scientific lines and technical training in the fields of engineering.

Degrees in agricultural, chemical, civil, electrical, industrial, and mechanical engineering are offered.

Dean George Branigan is head of the college. A native of Nebraska, he received his bachelor's degree from the University of Nebraska, and his master's from Kansas State College. He came here from Iowa State.

Dr. Warren K. Lewis, professor emeritus of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, dedicated the new chemical wing of the engine building March 15, Engineer's Day.

G. F. BRANIGAN, Dean, Engineering

V. W. ADKISSON, Dean, Graduate School

GRADUATE SCHOOL

The University Graduate School, with the inauguration of a new program in 1950-51, offered for the first time courses leading to the following degrees: Doctor of Philosophy and Doctor of Education. The Doctorate degree was also made available in chemistry, economics, English, history, and philosophy.

Study provisions for graduate students have been provided by the general library with each student receiving a permit to study in the stacks when necessary.

Each year many qualified students are awarded fellowships and scholarships. For those who wish to teach or work in research departments while studying, assistantships are offered.

V. W. Atkisson, who came to the University in 1930, has been Dean of the Graduate School since 1949.

R. A. LEFLAR, Dean, Law School

LAW SCHOOL

With the prospect of moving into a new modernistic building within the next few months, the school of law moved into its 28th year as one of the leading law schools in the nation.

The method of instruction employed in the School of Law is largely the study and discussion of cases. This method is designed to impart an effective working knowledge of fundamental legal principles and to develop the power of practical legal reasoning. It is the system of instruction which has been followed for many years by the standard American law schools.

All second year law students are required to complete assignments in the preparation of appellate briefs and in the use of law books. A practice court for the third year students is conducted so that experience may be obtained in the trial of cases.

The Law School publishes, during the academic year, a bulletin containing legal articles on recent Arkansas cases. High ranking students are chosen to work on this publication. In recent years it has come to be regarded as an official record and has been referred to in several cases.

DEAN of MEN

Dean of Men was the last thing John Shoemaker expected to be when he accepted a job as assistant director of OR-DARK in 1946.

One day in 1948, President Lewis Webster Jones called him. "How would you like to be dean of men?" he asked.

His only previous experience at the job had been a short time in the dean of students' office at Harvard.

"I didn't know what a dean of men was supposed to do," Dean Shoemaker confesses. "I guess they wanted a fresh point of view."

Since the day he assumed the job his constant allegiance has been to the student body and their activities. He must daily assume the task of mediator, guiding force, father, and friend. He listens to students' woes and troubles and then tries to see if they "can't be worked out."

Shoemaker was born in Seattle, Washington, and spent his early years there before moving to Fayetteville, which is now his home.

JOHN SHOEMAKER, Dean of Men

DEAN of WOMEN

Taking an active part in national meetings which are concerned with the welfare of women in American universities, as well as being instrumental in bringing well-known women to the campus, Dean Jeanette Scudder starts her 12th year at the University of Arkansas.

There will always be the problem of counselling the many young women who come to the University from small towns and cities in which opportunities are limited. These young women need advice on personal and professional problems, as well as proper living conditions, both lodging and food.

Miss Scudder is a graduate of Purdue University. As an undergraduate, she majored in English and psychology. She holds the Master's degree in personnel management from Columbia University.

The student law-making body of the University is the Student Senate, which is composed of representatives from each college, elected by a popular vote of the students of that college.

STUDENT COURT

The laws of the University community are administered by the Student Court, which is comprised of five students. The court has the jurisdiction to try students charged with violations, to decide disputes between student organizations, and to decide questions affecting student government.

STUDENT BODY OFFICERS

Composed of the officers of the Associated Students, representatives from all of the schools and colleges on the campus, and committees appointed by its officers, the Student Senate is the official body of student government at the University of Arkansas.

With its aim toward honest administration of student affairs and betterment of student welfare, the Senate has the task of apportioning student funds, soliciting name bands for all-student dances, and conducting any other business that is pertinent to the student body as a whole.

Last year, a new party, the University Party, was born at the University of Arkansas. This new party experienced a tremendous victory, taking all but five of the senatorial posts during the student election of April 1, 1951.

The 1951-52 senate opened its year with Leon Brunk, a senior in the college of agriculture, in the president's seat. The main project of the Senate for the first semester was pushing an "all-out sportsmanship program". Undoubtedly the efforts of the Senate paid off—to the extent of Arkansas' taking the Southwest Conference Sportsmanship trophy.

Other projects of the year included: A very successful "Cement Mixer" dance in front of the library the eve of the Arizona State game; the "King Porker" dance in the fieldhouse just before the Christmas holidays; a concert early in March by Jose and Amparo Iturbi, and participation in the state-wide program of relief for the tornado stricken people of Arkansas.

Under the provisions of the student constitution, four Student Body officers were elected, and thirteen senators. Leon Brunk was elected president, but turned his office over to Jim Wallace, who was elected vice-president, when he graduated at the close of the fall semester.

Martha Brooks, a senior in the college of arts and sciences, served this year as secretary of the Associated Students. Her job as such required that she keep records of the Senate meetings, publicize them, and perform any other administrative details that came up.

Billy Ray Jones, a senior in the college of business administration, was elected to the post of treasurer. His job was to supervise the financial affairs of the Associated Students and to serve as chairman of all financial committees established by the Senate.

The following senators have served the past year: Bob McKinney, Buddy Sutton, and June Dalton, business; Nancy Matthews, Sally Ingles, and Flo Martin, arts and sciences; George Hudson and Larry Hogue, education; Don Boling, engineering; Forrest Tennant and Gene Kerr, agriculture; Bill Prewett, law, and Bob Logsden (1st semester), and Devon Hammond (2nd semester), graduate.

GIRLS ENTERTAIN RUSHEES IN FALL RUSH

Talk flowed fluently as formal-clad girls gathered in the living room of the Chi Omega house

A greeting at the Tri-delt door

They didn't smoke

Lighted tapers and punch

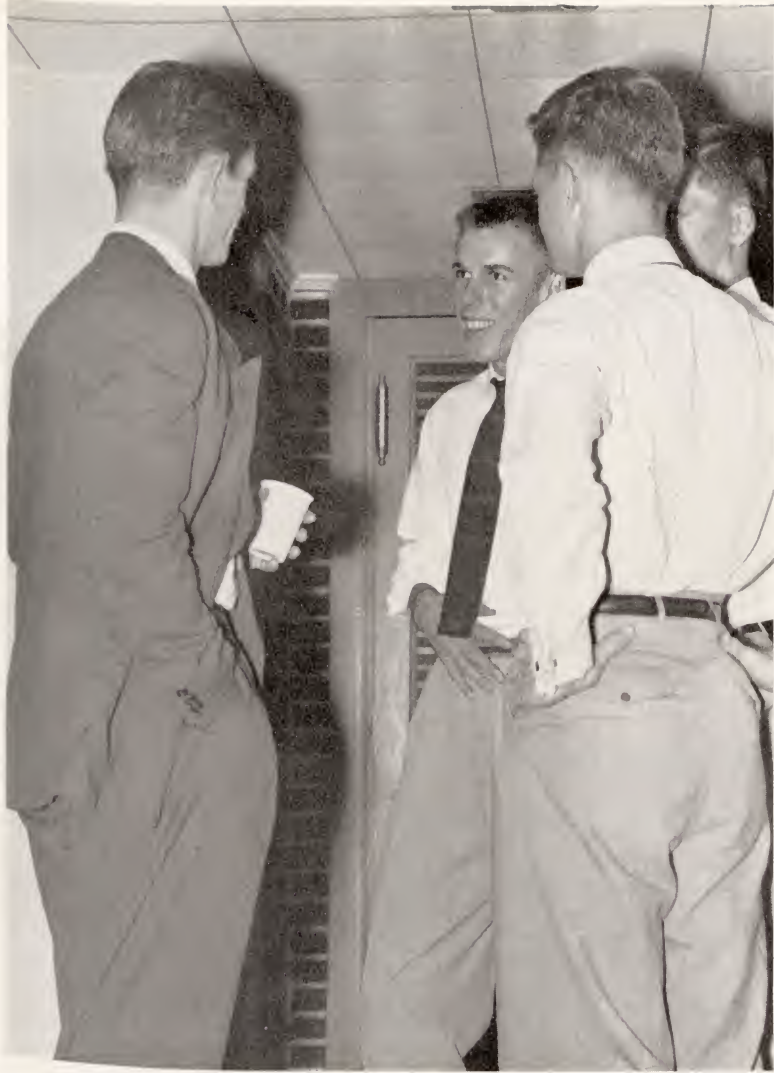

The Zetas provided refreshments for the tired rushees

THE BOYS ALSO ENTERTAINED ... RUSHEES

A chow line forms as famished rushees end a hard day of parties at the Sig Alpha house

Pi KAs with backs to camera talk things over

The staff encounters a thorny problem.

THE 1952 RAZORBACK

If the University of Arkansas had classes for the insane, the RAZORBACK office, on a busy afternoon, would certainly be the place to hold them. For during the past year, while the majority of the fun-loving college students drifted leisurely toward the Union for that long-awaited cup of coffee, a small nucleus of University citizens waded through mountains of pictures and reams of copy with the almost unattainable, often exasperating aim of seeing in print — you guessed it — this year's edition of the RAZORBACK. Like Admiral Byrd looking for the South Pole, like Daisy Mae after Li'l Abner, like Arkansas trying for the Cotton Bowl, on we went.

And guess what? Here it is. 862 cuss words and 9,315 cokes later, the result of many months of blood, sweat, tears and toil has seen its printed birth. And all we've got to say is "Whew!"

Certainly, there are many people who deserve a tremendous pat on the back for the work and effort they put forth. To cite any one person or even several, without naming off a roster of the staff, would be impossible. Look at the picture and look at the names of the people on the staff, and you may feel assured that all of these are deserving of any accolades we could bestow. As always, it was the editors who bore the load — Perrin Jones, Lou Wilson, Bob Robertson, and Bob Wright — along with Business Manager Bob Hornor and his capable staff. And, no doubt, quite a few bows should be taken by our fine photographers, our engravers and printers, and our faculty advisor, Mr. J. A. Thalheimer.

Industrious? But only for the photographer.

A policy question is debated.

THE ARKANSAS TRAVELER

Gathering added impetus with every issue that rolled off the presses, the Arkansas Traveler reached new heights of newspaper excellence during the 1951-52 school year.

Under the guidance of Charles Allbright, and with one of the smaller staffs in its history, the Traveler provided the student body and the University community with a paper in which professionalism was the keynote.

Starting the year on an eight-page Friday, four-page Tuesday basis, the Traveler expanded its Tuesday edition to eight pages at semester, resulting in a publication schedule of 16 pages weekly.

Using a new style makeup instituted in September, each issue managed to retain a freshness of its own. Correct news evaluation and objectivity in writing characterized the achievement of the Traveler in a newsworthy year.

The Traveler scored several news beats during the year, chief among which was the announcement of the Ford Foundation's endowment of a fund designed to revolutionize education, with the state of Arkansas as the pilot station of the program. A national scoop was accomplished on the significant disclosure by delaying distribution of the issue several hours until the national release date.

The Traveler did not hesitate to support worthy campus undertakings. Through its editorial columns and with complete coverage supplementing the drives, the Traveler was due a large share of credit for the previously unequaled success with which the various campaigns were met.

The Campus Chest drive, Blood-Donor drive, Religious Emphasis Week, and the chartering of a football special train to the SMU game in Dallas were only a few of the ventures in which the Traveler exercised the power of the press to gain top results. Basketball games in the fieldhouse were opened to all students largely as the result of a Traveler editorial.

Widely quoted in its news and editorial columns, the Traveler was written up in feature articles by several newspapers, and excerpts from the Traveler appeared in state dailies.

THE GUILD TICKER

To print articles which appeal directly to students in business college has been the aim of the staff of the Guild Ticker this year. The Guild Ticker is the magazine of the College of Business Administration. It is published twice each semester.

"We've been working toward articles which appeal to the students," Editor Bill Rice said this spring in summing up the year's work. And by looking at either the January or April issue of the Ticker it is obvious that the staff did strive to please the students — and succeeded.

In the April issue, published on Commerce Day, April 18, a brand new feature was a two-page spread devoted to pictures and short biographies of eight outstanding business students selected by a faculty board. Students receiving the honors were Raymond Belva, Sarah Cunningham, Billy Rae Jones, Eugene Lambert, Suzanne McWhorter, Franklin Middleton, Frankie Redding, and George Vest. Walter Henry was given recognition as holding the best grade point in business college.

The April issue contained mainly articles to help business students find their places after graduation. There was an article on "Land of Opportunity — Is it?" based on questionnaires sent to businessmen throughout the state asking their opinion on business opportunities in Arkansas. Also featured was a picture page on Arkansas industry in action. Devon Hammond wrote on "Why Work For Pop?" and Raymond Belva chose "Opportunity for Business Students in the Armed Forces" as a topic. Of course there was a two-page spread of pictures of the Commerce Queen, an alumni directory, and news of organizations.

All articles were written specifically for the Guild Ticker with an eye toward the students.

Rather unique covers for both issues were designed by Mrs. Dorothy McBride Melze, a student from Dallas, Texas. The April cover, done in chartreuse, red, black, and white, depicted the life of a graduate of the College of Business Administration. Mrs. Melze's April cover, in gray, black, red, and white, had ticker tape running all over it.

A total of 1,000 magazines were distributed to students and another 350 went to businessmen and high schools throughout the state and to out of state Universities.

Office is crowded but business staff works hard.

THE ARKANSAS AGRICULTURIST

The Arkansas Agriculturist is the official voice of the students and faculty of the college of agriculture. Published since 1924, the Agriculturist contains news, features, and pictures of student activity and research conducted by the college.

The Agriculturist is proud of its title of "voice of the students and faculty" and lives up to it through editorials by the student editors and the comments on the "Dean's Page."

Under the Editorship of Tom Wilkinson, the Agriculturist took on a new and modern look this year with a new nameplate and format. The old bold face plate was abandoned and replaced by a pitchfork design with Arkansas Agriculturist superimposed on the handle. Each issue the cover appears in a color appropriate to the season.

Content of the magazine has changed too, with longer features on agricultural progress in Arkansas, abandonment of the Betty Lamp page which once was devoted to Home Economics, and a new editorial page, and integration of all news from the college of agriculture and home economics into a single department.

As a part of the change-over, the Agriculturist is now published four times each year instead of eight. The new schedule was adopted for greater economy to allow more attention to make-up and content and to allow greater use of pictures.

The "big" issue this year as in years past, is the Agri Day issue with its traditional red cover featuring a picture of Agri Queen, Jo Ann Price. On its pages are pictures and stories of the clubs and organizations in the college of agriculture and home economics. This issue also features pictures and stories of the outstanding students who are the "Who's Who of the College of Agriculture."

The Editors of the Agriculturist are selected by vote of the agri student body, and the staff is appointed by the editor.

McGhee pays little attention as Wilkinson explains.

Another ENGINEER is in the making.

ARKANSAS ENGINEER

To this year's Arkansas Engineer goes the distinction of being one of the better University engineering publications to roll off the presses in past years. Under the editorship of Don Boling, this quarterly published voice of the Engine school has presented to its readers articles that are of general interest to future engineers. In deviating from the highly technical articles and research reports that have filled past Engineers, this year's staff has set a precedent that is worthy of exemplification.

Designed chiefly for engineering students on the University campus, the Engineer is, however, sent to high schools throughout the state. The purpose behind this action is to interest future college students in the field of engineering and in the Engineering School of the University of Arkansas. Through its circulation to the high schools this publication serves the dual purpose of informing students of the vast opportunities in engineering and of acting as an advance representative of the University.

This year's staff consisted of a group of students well versed in the art of publication. Editor Don Boling and business manager Ira Parsons have served on preceding staffs as business manager and makeup editor. The remainder of the staff have all gathered experience in past years through work on various publications. In addition to the regular staff's contributions, this year's Engineer was supplemented with several guest articles, and a special page of comment by Dean of the Engineering school, George F. Branigan.

The feature section's "Hawg Waller" and "Cracked Retorts" are always two of the most avidly read pages in each publication and are certainly the most sought-after copy for proof readers. Considerably lighter reading than the majority of Engineer articles, these features afford a chance to relax the mind with laughter after struggling with the more technical jargon found in the engine school.

A major source of copy for the March edition of the Engineer is always Engineer's Day, that festive occasion each spring when the engineering students cut loose for a full day of celebration; and attention centers around Ste. Patricia, St. Pat, exhibits, a banquet, elections, and other media of expressing the joys of being an engineer.

Next year's publication will be headed by John Ashworth, editor, and Frank Carl, business manager. To these two men is handed the task of turning out another "best" Arkansas Engineer.

And they didn't even know the photographer was looking.

ARKANSAS LAW REVIEW

Since its beginning in the spring of 1946, the Arkansas Law Review has come to be recognized by lawyers throughout the state as an accurate legal publication.

This year's issues will be distributed to more than 1400 subscribers throughout Arkansas and other states, as well as Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. The Review is published quarterly. Three issues originate from the University campus and the fourth, compiled by the Arkansas Bar Association, covers the proceedings of the state Bar Association convention.

The purpose of the Review is to assemble outstanding legal problems in narrative form slanted to render assistance to Arkansas lawyers. Articles are written by University of Arkansas Law School faculty members, and other outstanding legal writers. Students who are members of the Review editorial staff furnish comments, case notes, and edit the publication in conjunction with the faculty editor.

An award of $300 is given each year to those members of the editorial board submitting the best comments and case notes.

The Student Editorial Board is selected from law students who have demonstrated ability in legal writing, and have written a certain amount of publishable material for the Review.

A Law Review office, complete with library, is provided in the basement of the Law building. Here the members of the staff read and screen the decisions of the higher courts, write the short articles which form an important part of the Law Review, and criticize or revise articles written for publication by other students. Law Review work is considered invaluable training for a law student inasmuch as it affords an opportunity to do original research on legal problems as practicing attorneys must do.

CHARLES ALLBRIGHT, Chairman

BOARD OF PUBLICATIONS

The Board of Publications, governing body for student edited publications, is composed of six students and three faculty members. Chairman of the Board is Charles Allbright, editor of the Arkansas Traveler.

Principle duty of the Board is to pick the editors of the Traveler, the Razorback and the "A" book. Such selections are made in the spring of each year preceding the editor's terms of office.

Along with Allbright, the Board consists of J. A. Thalheimer, professor of journalism; Bunn Bell, university comptroller; Mrs. Narnee Murphy, assistant dean of the college of business administration; Craig Basse, president of the press club; Tom Wilkinson, editor of the Agriculturist; Bill Rice, editor of the Guild Ticker; Janie Sullivan, editor of the Razorback, and Bob Lowe, student senate appointee.

Under the plan provided for in the 1948 student constitution, the editors of the Agriculturist and the Guild Ticker and the Law Review and the Engineer alternate in serving on the board. The faculty member is elected every year by the student senate. The Press Club president, the editor of the Arkansas Traveler and the editor of the Razorback serve continually.

Another duty of the board is to care for engraving and printing contracts for the Razorback.

The Board usually meets twice each school year: once for the selection of new editors, and near the end of the year to approve the bids for Razorback work.

The Board was set up by the constitution to supervise the staffs and publication activities of the various magazines and newspapers under its jurisdiction, but the student staffs are in reality responsible for content.

RAZORBACKS

FINISH WITH A

5-5 SEASON

The phase of the Razorbacks' 1951 football season that causes old grads to lift their glasses on high is not the season's record.

But they have two good reasons to toast the Porkers, even though five losses offset five victories.

A triumph over the Texas Longhorns is something that seems to come along about once for each generation, no more and maybe less. The 16-14 victory on that chilly afternoon in October will long be remembered by the fans who saw the game, those who heard it and those who heard about it. It made Otis Douglas the "happiest man in the world," he said. And the Texans probably won't forget it either. They were ranked No. 4 nationally when they trotted onto the field before the game.

The other occasion for glee was the 33-21 victory over the Texas Aggies at Homecoming. Beating the Aggies is no rare achievement for the Razorbacks. In fact, the Porkers have a better all-time record against the Ags than any other conference team. But on that day the Razorbacks were crippled and the Aggies were supposedly hungry for victory and capable of getting one from the Porkers. They were rated in the upper ten in the nation that week and were trying to improve that standing by knocking off the Hogs who had only two weeks before levelled the Texas Longhorns.

BRITT

PICKINS

The Razorbacks started the football season with three big question marks looming over them:

1) An unknown quantity at quarterback. Three capable hands were in camp, Ralph Troilett, Lamar McHan and Jim Rinehart, but nobody seemed to know who could do the best job.

2) A healthy crop of big but inexperienced linemen were on hand, but no one seemed to know how they would fare under fire.

3) A 2-8 record was the last one rung up by the Razorbacks. It looked like they could do nothing but improve.

The problems all got ironed out eventually, but some of them not until it was too late.

It is history how the quarterback problem was solved. A Lake Village sophomore named Lamar McHan worked himself into the job and turned in a number of great performances, notably against Texas and Texas A&M. He was named to the all-Southwest Conference team.

From time to time the lack of an experienced line hurt the Razorbacks. But they had stalwarts like Dave Hanner and Bob Griffin, who made all-Southwest Griffin, who made all-Southwest, Fred Williams and Pat Summerall. Griffin was named top line-man of the nation for the week of the Texas game for his outstanding performance in knocking off the Texas quarterback each time the ball was snapped. All of them were double duty workers, shouldering more than their share of the load on offense and defense both.

As for the 2-8 record mournfully placed in the record book by Douglas in his first season here in 1950, that was brightened a little by the 5-5 season. Actually, it was brightened more than the record shows, because of the victories over the Longhorns and the Aggies.

The Razorbacks started the season with a bang, stomping Oklahoma A&M, 42-7. That game must have been delightful for the veterans, for it was the Oklags who started the Porks on their dismal campaign the season before with a 12-6 loss.

It had been the first win for Oklahoma A&M since the war. The Razorbacks rolled up 442 yards on offense, the Aggies 167 yards.

The scoring was spread out pretty evenly among the Razorbacks. Jim Rinehart, on a quarterback sneak, scored the first TD of the game and the first one of the season. Then Pat Summerall booted a field goal, Rinehart passed to end Bill Jurney for a TD, and McHan broke loose for his longest run of the season, 81 yards through the middle of the Aggie line for a touchdown. Buddy Sutton scored the next tally and Rinehart passed to Summerall for another TD. Jerry Bogard intercepted a pass and returned it for a score, the game's last.

The next victory was a little more difficult, but the score was almost as decisive. For their first appearance on their home field, the Razorbacks rallied in the second half to defeat the Arizona State Sun Devils, 30 to 13.

Four Arkansas fumbles in the first half caused the offense to bog down and the Porks trudged to the dressing rooms at the half trailing by 13-6. A McHan to Summerall pass had netted the only score.

But in the second half the Porks came to life. McHan passed to Jurney for a TD and Summerall booted his second field goal of the season. Rinehart added the next two tallies, one on a quarterback sneak.

So the Razorbacks were undefeated when they pulled into Little Rock for a game with the TCU Horned Frogs, their first of six conference foes. But it was old "Heartbreak Stadium," War Memorial Stadium, and the Frogs pinned the Porks ears back, 17-7, in a light drizzle. The Frogs later went on to win the conference championship.

"It was my fault," Douglas said after the game. "I left the first stringers in the game too long and they got tired. It was my fault."

McHan and Sutton were outstanding in the backfield for the Razorbacks. They led the drive that culminated in McHan's score, the only Porker touchdown.

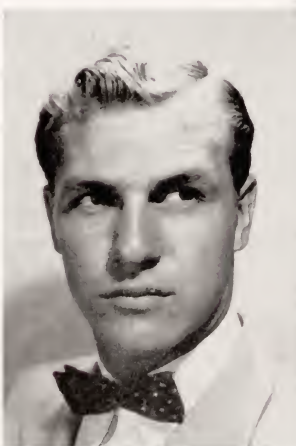

The entire Razorback forward wall did a good job and Douglas had nothing but praise for them.

The Razorbacks ran true to another jinx the next week when they fell before the Baylor Bears, 9-7, at Waco. The Porks have never beaten the Bears on their home field at Waco.

A field goal, a weapon brought to popularity in the SWC by Douglas, proved the Porks undoing. Cosimo Brocato booted the first field goal of his college career and the Razorbacks were outscored. But not without a battle.

SMITH

SUMMERALL

With 1:08 remaining to play in the game, the Razorbacks gained possession of the ball. McHan started passing, trying to beat both the clock and the Bears with one fatal completion. He completed one to Bill Jurney on the goal line and there the Razorback attack stopped. They couldn't punch across for the winning tally.

With Louis Carpenter and Larry Hogue both sidelined with injuries, the Razorback used Charlie Hallum and Buddy Sutton and McHan at fullback.

Dean Pryor plunged through the line for the only Razorback score.

All was atoned for the next week, for that was Dad's Day at the University, and the Razorbacks beat Texas, 16-14.

Memorable occasions abounded in Razorback Stadium that day. The armchair quarterbacks for years to come can expound on the line play of Bob Griffin that day, consistently tearing through to smother the Steer ballcarrier. For that job he was named the nation's outstanding lineman for the week. They can talk about McHan's 80-yard quick kick, the fourth longest in the history of the conference. They can talk about the staunch defense that bottled the Steers throughout the game, and especially in the tense early moments.

It was the first victory over Texas since 1938, and they can talk about that too. And about Summerall's field goal, booed before he kicked it and cheered after he kicked it, that eventually won the game.

The Razorback touchdowns were scored by Buddy Sutton and Jack Troxell.

The next week the Razorbacks seemed to have nothing left. They lost to Santa Clara, 21-12, in War Memorial Stadium in Little Rock. In that game Bill Jurney's spleen was ruptured when he was hit while going up for a pass, and the speedy end was out for the season.

The Santa Clara team spent a great part of the night in Baptist State Hospital at Little Rock, volunteering blood for Jurney, who was on the surgeon's table.

Then came Homecoming, and a 33-21 triumph over Texas A&M. The Aggies were supposedly a victory-hungry team when they arrived at Fayetteville. Ranked seventh in the nation by the Associated Press, they were finding their road a tough one to travel. But the Razorbacks, led by McHan, smeared the Aggies.

Sutton started the scoring for the Porkers and a McHan-to-Troxell pass, pulled in on the goal line with a monkey-catch, was the second touchdown. Then McHan spurted through the center of the line, 58 yards to a touchdown. That one, McHan revealed later, was a mistake. He was supposed to hand the ball off to a halfback, but when he turned around the halfback was gone. His only alternative was to run with the ball himself. He ran 58 yards behind good blocking that formed for him when the linemen saw the situation. Sutton and McHan both scored later touchdowns.

Two weeks of heartbreakers followed. One was the Rice game, such a close contest that it hurt to lose it. The other was the SMU game, an embarrassing rout for the Razorbacks at the hands of the Mustangs.

Billy Burkhalter's plunge through the line in the last two minutes of the game enabled the Rice Owls to win over Arkansas, 6-0, in the mud at Houston.

Over at Dallas in the Cotton Bowl the next Saturday, Flingin' Fred Benners unlimbered his long passing arm and buried the Razorbacks under a 47-7 score. The Razorbacks did a little tossing themselves, and when the smoke had cleared away, a total of 76 passes were on the record.

The Razorbacks closed the season by busting the Little Rock jinx wide open. They beat Tulsa's Golden Hurricane, 24-7. A combination of staunch defense and the passing of McHan got the job done. Prior to the game, the Tulsa team was the nation's leading ground gainer.

the season, got the Razorbacks a three point lead in the first quarter. Then McHan took over. He passed to Murray Elton for two touchdowns and to Summerall for the third one.

This game closed a terrific season at Arkansas. Not one which saw the Razorbacks undefeated or tops in the nation but one which did see the fighting Porkers with a 5-5 record and a list of victories that included the names of many of the Arkansas' team's traditional rivals. All in all, it was a very successful season at Arkansas.

Spring football gave the ever-optimistic fan stronger ground to stand on. An imposing array of halfbacks, a returning all-Southwest quarterback, and a pair of powerful fullbacks make the running game look like a good one for the Razorbacks of 1952.

The Porks played a pair of Red-White intrasquad games, one at Fayetteville and one at Little Rock. Both games widened the grin that first came to the fans' faces after a glance at the spring football roster.

In the two games the Razorbacks scored a total of 119 points, which is impressive even when you take into consideration that they were playing against each other. The Reds won the first game by a 54-24 count and won the second game by a 27-14 score.

The talent for zipping up and down the football field and crossing the goal lines must have brightened the life of Otis Douglas at least a little. Since the brawny ex-pro took over the helm three year ago, he has seen his losing football teams perform in excellent style on defense only to fall down on offense.

In the first intrasquad game, several individual performers knocked the fans for a loop, as well as their teammates on the other team. The passing of Ralph Troillett, the running of Earl Kaiser are examples. And Lamar McHan, all-Southwest quarterback in his sophomore year last season, looked ready to pick up where he left off. Lewis Carpenter, fullback, looked as strong as ever and halfback Jack Troxell looked as fast as ever.

McHan, Troxell, Kaiser and Carpenter each scored two touchdowns in the first game. Kaiser was the game's leading ground gainer, making 109 yards on eight carries. Tiny Tommy Britt carried 109 yards on eight tries.

On the subject of McHan, Backfield Coach Tommy Thompson said:

"I hardly recognized Mac this spring. He certainly has improved over last year. If Arkansas has a good season next fall, Mac should be a leading candidate for All-American."

"ARKANSAS DROPS MIGHTY TEXAS, 16-14," "RAZORBACKS UPSET TEXAS AGGIES, 33-21." Those were just two of the banner headlines that streamed across the sports pages on a couple of Sunday mornings last Fall. The stories under these headlines were made up of paragraph after paragraph devoted to describing the action on the field. Words of praise were heaped upon individual players of both teams for their exhibitions of athletic ability and reams of copy went to making heroes.

However, the majority of the sports writers, absorbed in the play on the gridiron below them, failed to mention another factor that contributed mightily to the defeat of the teams from Texas. They missed that action on each side of the field that many times is the difference in a team being good and a team being great. This is the play that is quarterbacked by the University cheerleaders and executed by the Razorback supporters. Eight University students in red and white, calling the plays that start a roar of jubilant sound rolling out of the stands and across the men on the field, inspiring their actions.

The Longhorn and Aggie games are only two examples from many. The University cheerleaders are always out front—at the games, those Friday night pep rallies, celebration parades, and whipping up enthusiasm days before the contest is to be played.

To these eight students goes much of the credit for Arkansas' having received the Southwest Sportsmanship Trophy. Arkansas, who has finished in last place in four previous balloting for the coveted trophy, was awarded the honor at the Cotton Bowl game in Dallas, Texas, January 1. The University won by a slim margin over Texas A & M, whose votes in Arkansas' favor ironically cost the Texans the sportsmanship award.

No article concerning the cheerleaders, spirit on the University campus, and sportsmanship would be complete without mention of the card stunts staged during half-time ceremonies. Led by Charlie Jones, these exhibitions served to supplement half-time activities on the field and were no doubt instrumental in bringing the sportsmanship award to the Ozarks.

So to the University cheerleaders go the thanks of the students for many things; for the untiring efforts in a sometimes thankless job, for always being ready with a call to the Hogs, for adding their color to home athletic contests, and for boosting the spirit and holding it up when the scoreboard read against us.

BASKETBALL

What will probably go down into the record books as the gloomiest and stormiest basketball season in Arkansas Razorback history—1951-52—started and ended on an encouraging note.

The season, which saw Arkansas lose more games than it won for the first time in 28 years of cage past, was one filled with disturbing events. Yet, despite this mediocre season, possibilities for the future appeared to be very good.

The Porkers opened their 1951-52 campaign with potentiality in great height and four experienced starters. At the same time, Arkansas was not regarded as championship material because of the presence of eight inexperienced sophomores. With this combination, Presley Askeew's charges raced through three wins over their first three collegiate opponents, losing only to mighty Phillips 66. Their near seven-foot center, Billy Hester, was scoring 15 to 20 points a game and everything appeared rosy.

Then came a closely fought loss to Tulsa (the first of two last year) followed by the worst defeat in Razorback history, 79-39, to Mississippi State, and the Porkers went sliding. A win over Missouri delayed only temporarily the fall that Arkansas was to take. After the second Tulsa loss, the Hogs went to Dallas, Texas, for the first conference tournament. Two discouraging losses followed and the bottom dropped out. Hester withdrew from school and Arkansas was faced with the prospects of "re-building" a team at the start of the conference race.

A revamped lineup that oft-times included three or four sophomores, a new offense, and a re-kindled spirit failed to halt the January nose-dive. The Porkers were all but eliminated from the race with losses to Texas A & M, Texas and Rice. Only lowly Baylor and much smaller Pittsburg, Kan., Teachers were defeated.

Opponents struggle over ball's possession in hotly-contested dual . . . the referee's whistle could be heard in the background.

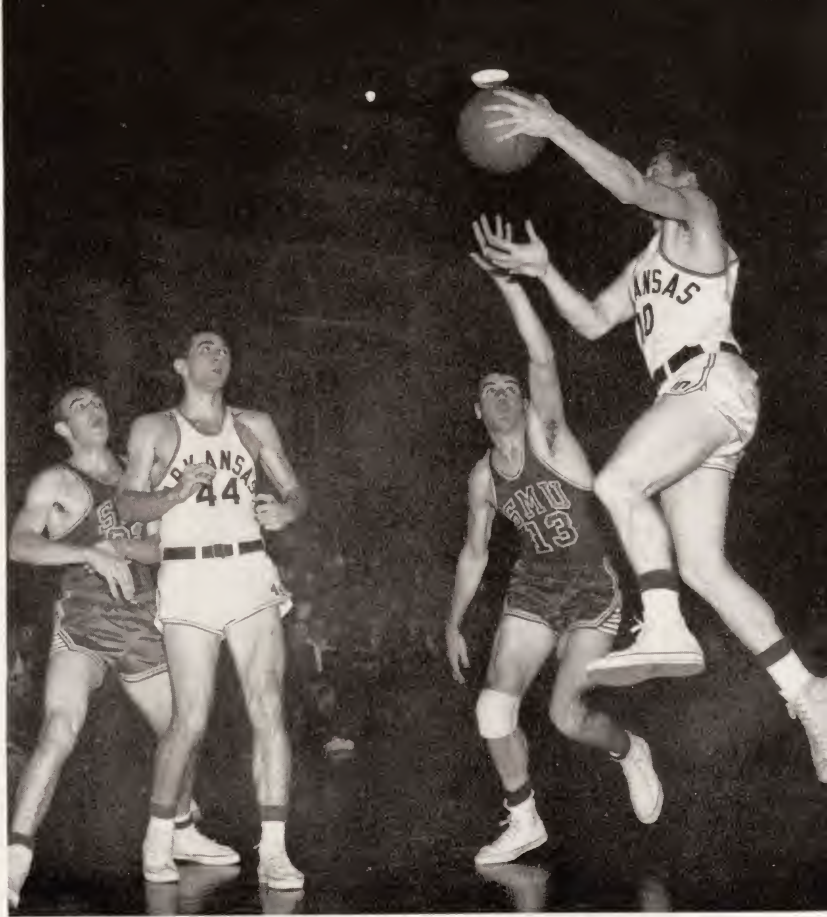

The Razorbacks were hot as they defeated Pittsburg State Teachers in the Arkansas fieldhouse.

Then came the surprise game of the year—a 56-54 triumph over previously once-defeated and NCAA-tournament-bound Texas Christian. The win, eked out of a driving spirit, was the only one last year by a conference team over the Frogs and one of only three chalked up against TCU all year. It was the last significant victory of the year for Arkansas.

Disheartening losses to Southern Methodist, Rice, Baylor, SMU again and Texas Christian fell before the season was over. A win over Texas A & M was wedged in between and the season closer provided a thrilling 45-44 victory over Texas in Fayetteville.

The encouragement for next year's squad in a sense is embodied in Tryon Lewis's desperate last-second shot that beat the Longhorns. Arkansas loses only one man—senior Sammy Smith. They gain the services of ten lettermen and the touch of former Razorback cage-magician, Glen Rose. Rose's appointment came on the heels of Askew's announced intention not to ask re-appointment. His record as a coach at Arkansas for nine seasons in the past speaks for itself. Once the cry "Get Glen Back" went up, it was obvious that "Gloomy Glen" would not be left alone at his Stephen F. Austin position.

1951-52 saw Arkansas tie for sixth place in the seven-team loop. It also witnessed the first year since 1925 that Arkansas failed to place a man on the All-Conference first team. Lettering were Captain Sammy Smith, Walter Kearns, Eugene Lambert, Jr., Tryon Lewis, Floyd Sagely, Marvin Adams, Raymond Shaw, Orval Elkins, Joel Lucke, Bill Sailer and J. W. Walker.

A scramble for the ball comes in Arkansas-SMU game.

Askew offers fervent plea from the sidelines.

TRACK

With the departure of miler James Brown from last year's cinder squad, Coach Johnny Morriss will have to depend upon unheralded sophs and juniors to fill in the gap during the '52 season in the distance events.

All at one time, six of Morriss' distance runners departed. Brown and Ollie Gatchell were gone in one blow.

The end of a long run . . .

To further deplete the running corps, Tom Hardin (holder of the school one-mile record), James West, Roy Fish, and Norman Price departed. Bob Ambler, the decathlon-javelin specialist, was the only field man to finish last season.

Brown, probably the greatest distance runner in the school's history, closed out a brilliant collegiate track career with a 9:09.9 two-mile run in the NCAA finals.

The Hog cross-country team capped the Southwest Conference crown for the second straight year on November 19, 1951. A quintet composed of Temple Brown, Bill Cairns, Rick Heber, James Bean, and Bill Hills defended the cross country championship successfully.

Last spring the second annual Arkansas Relays was held in Razorback stadium with more than 250 tracksters participating. The University division was composed of three teams—Arkansas, Oklahoma A&M, and Purdue—with the Hogs finishing second behind the Aggies.

The history of Southwest conference track champions rightfully belongs to three schools—Texas, Texas A&M, and Rice—in that order; for in 36 years these three schools have held the top spot 23 times. However, Arkansas is coming fast as a threat in Southwest conference track field and has finished third three times in the last five years, including the 1951 meet.

BASEBALL

Playing the heaviest schedule since 1948, the baseball charges of Coach Bill Ferrell finished the 1951 season with a record of 10 wins and seven losses.

Last year's diamond crew became the first athletic team to conquer Oklahoma A&M since 1944 by blasting out two consecutive victories over the Cowpokes in Fayetteville fairgrounds, 15-11 and 10-4.

After jumping off to a fast start, the 1951 Razorback hardballers had a 9-2 record in their first 11 games, but then proceeded to win only one of their last six.

The loss of Louis Schaufele, Bob Williams, John Balay, Chris Brown, and Jose Mercado gave promise for a reshuffled line-up—at almost every position during the 1952 season.

Those to return for this year from last season's squad are: pitchers Walt Kearns and Bobby Joe Linebarrier; infielders: Jim Rinehart and Lewis Carpenter, and outfielders: Frank Fischel and Harold Pridemore.

The above mentioned pitching trio are expected to be aided by sophs Edsel Nix and Lamar McHan, righthanders—giving Arkansas promise of its most stable mound staff in years.

The infield will have two new faces in Francis Long and Billy Bowden, both up from the freshman team. Bob "Red" Warren and Charlie Lutes are expected to battle for an outfield slot with Pridemore and Fischel.

Two players on last year's Porker nine signed professional baseball contracts after school was out. Bob Williams, Hog catcher, signed with the Philadelphia Athletics, and John Balay, ace of the Porker hill staff, inked a St. Louis Cardinal contract.

Last year's record of 10 wins and seven losses for the Razorback nine gave Coach Ferrell a record of 15 wins in 25 games for a .600 average while at the helm of the Porkers for the last two years—including several professional and Army pro-student teams.

And another game is won.

The leading hitters for the Razorbacks last year were the quartet of Carpenter, Williams, Fischel, and Schaufele. On the mound staff, Balay carried most of the load with Kearns and Linebarrier backing him up.

Of the 10 victories racked up by the Porkers last year, two were over the Oklahoma Aggies, arch-rivals of the Hogs. The seven losses were at the hands of Tulsa, Ft. Leonard Wood, Oklahoma A&M, Bradley and Illinois.

Even with the loss of five regulars from last year's diamond squad, the Porkers expect to field a good squad in 1952.

All in all, the picture is an interesting one: improved depth on the mound; fair to good hitting strength; and in most cases sophomore fielding (especially in the infield). The Porkers, annually not included in the Southwest conference baseball race because of travel and weather difficulties, will probably play Oklahoma A&M, Tulsa and Bradley during the 1952 campaign.

TENNIS

Tennis fortunes took a turn for the good last year and the Razorback netters finished the season with seven wins, four losses and two ties. Also last season a frosh tennis team was organized—the first since before the war—and nearly 30 candidates turned out for the varsity and freshman teams.

Responsible for last year's magnificent job was Hughes Davis, tennis coach and physical education director. Hughes accomplished this impressive record in the space of just two years at the university. His frosh team took three wins in a five-match schedule.

Davis, interested in keeping alive the tennis "fever" that hit the campus, scheduled an exhibition with British Davis Cupper Charlie Hare and was rewarded with spectator turnouts of 150 to 250 students for many of the matches.

With the tennis future looking bright for the Hogs for the first time since its resumption after World War II, the responsibility of keeping it that way will fall upon Francis "Windy" Morris during the 1952 season.

Morris will have four lettermen returning as a nucleus for the 1952 net team. Charles Crigger, Blytheville; Tom Coker, Stuttgart; Hugh Dorsey, Ft. Smith; and Jim Faulkner, Malvern, will be the core of the '52 squad. Only John Griffiee of Ft. Smith was lost from the 1951 team.

GOLF

The loss of an all-senior team of outstanding golfers after the 1950 season sent Arkansas link hopes tumbling, and the Porker linksters are still trying to recover from the blow.

Re-built with a quartet of golfers that improved as the season progressed, the Porkers of last year were, nevertheless, not on a quality standing with opponents from North Texas State—thrice national champs, Oklahoma A&M and Tulsa—Missouri Valley favorites.

The 1952 Porker golf hopes have again been shattered with the departure of three of those four lettermen—Ted Cash, Bill Messenger and Harold Stockton.

The Razorbacks are going to return to Southwest Conference play in 1952 with only one letterman returning from last year's squad—Mike Clifford.

Clifford is the linkster that Coach Bob Zander, local country club pro, is expected to build the 1952 Razorback golf team around. Zander replaces Ralph Ward, who was last year's coach.

Others who will vie for positions on the '52 squad are: E. B. Gee, Walter Camp, Jim Billingsley and Charles H'Doubler. All of the aforementioned are sophomores. One senior will probably be on the team. He is senior transfer Tom Raney. Raney transferred two years ago from Hendrix where he was one of the school's top men; while Camp and H'Doubler were finalist and semi-finalist, respectively, in last year's intramural golf program.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The department of physical education is one of the major divisions of the College of Education and is organized to perform four major functions, namely, the professional program providing technical training for teachers of physical education; the service program providing sports activity classes for all freshman and sophomore women enrolled in the university and all freshman men in the College of Education; the intramural program providing organized competition in sports for the entire student body; and the recreational program providing wholesome recreational opportunities for students who prefer free play.

Special activities of the department include: research concerning the general physical education program; conducting clinics on physical and health education to improve public school programs; consultant services to organizations and individuals regarding child training; and cooperating with national organizations and agencies.

E. T. Hendricks has been head of the physical education department since 1948 and under his capable leadership and with the cooperation of the university administration, Dean of the College of Education, and the Athletic Department, the program has shown tremendous improvement.

Mrs. Wincie Ann Carruth heads the women's physical education division which has shown similar improvement in the last four years.

AIR FORCE ROTC

LT. COL. RAY W. ALFORD
Professor of Air Science and Tactics

The Basic and Advanced cadets of the Air Force and Army Reserve Officers Training Corps exemplified again during the past school year those qualities which have consistently earned for the Military Department the highest possible federal ratings since its founding on the campus in 1872. The continuing national emergency bestowed additional seriousness of purpose on the mission of the department, that of producing junior officers for the Reserve Forces of the Army and Air Force; young men capable of assuming the responsibilities of leadership in the defense of the United States.

The Air Force ROTC program was under the direction of Lt. Colonel Ray W. Alford for the school year 1951-52. Enrollment in all classes exceeded the figures for previous years and 120 Second Lieutenants were commissioned. Two cadets, James F. Koonce and Wayne D. Ortloff, won regular commissions in the Air Force. About twenty-five students were accepted for flight training in grade, leaving for flying schools shortly after commissioning ceremonies in June. Several other newly commissioned officers were accepted for active duty specialized schooling in meteorology, industrial management, and foreign language training. The majority of the graduating class were called to active duty.

Cadet Colonel Ernest H. Cox led the Wing in the formal parade and ceremonies of the year, including the Homecoming parade and the annual federal inspection conducted by Headquarters, Fourteenth Air Force. The Wing this year was organized into three Groups and six Squadrons. Group commanders were Cadet Lieutenant Colonels James H. Smith, Billy R. Jones, and James F. Koonce.

Other events of the year were the Military Ball, one of the outstanding social events on the campus each year; and the participation of the Rifle Team under the direction of Captain George H. Parsons and M/Sgt. Aruthur O. Boudreaux in the Hearst Trophy, Intercollegiate, Fourteenth Air Force, and the Governor's Cup matches.

ARMY ROTC

Under Colonel Henry Neilson, Professor of Military Science and Tactics, the University Army Reserve Officers Training Corps successfully completed its 79th year on the campus of the University of Arkansas. During these years the Army ROTC Unit has compiled an enviable record in accomplishing its mission; which is, the turning out of trained Reserve Officers for duty in the United States Army.

Many of last year's graduates of the Infantry and Signal Corps are on duty in all parts of the world and their ability to serve in a creditable manner is attested by their assignments to highly responsible positions.

The Army Cadet Corps consists of five hundred and fifty students, of which two hundred and ten are enrolled in the advanced course. The students taking the advanced course are carefully selected for character, intelligence, alertness and aptitude. The calibre of the advanced students is attested by their splendid record of achievement at summer camp. In competition with students from other colleges and universities, four of the eight highest awards, "Outstanding Company Cadet," were won by Arkansas men, Cadets Charles R. Payne, Drexel E. Sanders, Thomas L. Stanford, and Charles R. West.

The Army Cadet Corps is organized as a regiment with three battalions of two companies each. Cadet Colonel Adolph Towns, Signal Corps, commanded the regiment the first semester. Cadet Towns received his commission as a second lieutenant, Signal Corps Reserve, in February and was succeeded as Regimental Commander by Cadet Colonel Drexel E. Saunders, Infantry.

Highlights of the ROTC program were the annual federal inspection, the Cadet Military Ball, and an inspection of the unit by Assistant Secretary of the Army, Earl D. Johnson, and Major General Hugh M. Milton, II, Executive for Reserve and ROTC affairs. The Federal inspection was conducted by high ranking officers from Fourth Army Headquarters and the Arkansas Military District. The reports made by these officers show the reason for the high rating that is consistently given to the Army ROTC unit.

DAVIS HALL

Bridge is a favorite sport and pastime . . . when a grand slam is to be had.

Davis Hall, located at 1020 West Maple Street, is one of the small residence houses for upper class women.

The main social events of the year included the Harvest Moon Ball in October, The Christmas dinner dance, open house, sweater hops and the senior breakfast. An efficient social chairman was responsible for these successful activities.

This year ended with many happy memories of these activities and the association with the other members of the hall.

HOLCOMBE HALL

Holcombe Hall celebrated its fourth year on the campus with one of the most enthusiastic groups of Freshmen women enjoying a full year of social events and happy hours together.

Starting off early with the Interhall Harvest Moon dance, everyone entered into the fall festivities with orange pumpkins and corn stalks placed under a beautiful yellow moon.

Holcombe's annual Apple Blossom formal in the spring was as beautiful as it was enjoyable. Several open houses and sweater hops helped to round out the social calendar.

Holcombe was right on top with participation in campus activities.

A special emphasis was also placed on house government and leadership training for the girls this year.

GIRLS' 4-H HOUSE

There has been a 4-H cooperative house on the campus for about fifteen years, but this year the residents of the 4-H house had the distinction of being the first group to live in the new $130,000 building at the corner of Douglas and Lindell Streets.

The new rock 4-H house was financed by the Arkansas Council of Home Demonstration Clubs. The clubs worked for twelve years on the project. The house, which was formally dedicated in May, 1951 accomodates forty girls.

The 4-H girls have been very active on the campus this year. They participated in the Harvest Moon Ball along with the other independnet houses on the campus. Pollyanna Week, an annual affair with 4-H houses, was observed during the Christmas season. Each girl played Pollyanna to another by giving her a small gift each day for a week. At the end of the week a banquet was held and large gifts were exchanged.

In addition to several sweater hops, pajama parties, and an informal Christmas dance, the 4-H house held a Spring formal in the house. In April they celebrated their Founder's day with a banquet honoring alumni and newly elected house officers.

Severel of the 4-H girls have been outstanding individually, both on the campus and in 4-H work. Jo Anne Price was elected Agri queen for 1952. Sue Walker was secretary of AWS and associate editor of the Arkansas Agriculturist. Judy Bass was the Arkansas delegate to the National Voyage Congress.

ORGANIZED INDEPENDENT WOMEN

Organized Independent Women was founded in 1946 to bring campus life to off-campus students.

OIW provides social functions for members and insures participation in student government. The group enters its own candidates in all contests for football queens and beauties.

OIW is well represented in campus organizations and campus activities. Mary Martha Diggs was president of OIW, librarian of Phi Upsilon Omicron, honorary home economics fraternity, is a member of Coterie and Mortar Board, and was on the AWS Executive Board, and the Student Senate. GREGSON HALL

Gregson residents form for the never ending "chow" line . . . meals served "family style".

The fourth year after the completion of Gregson Hall was marked by its residents uniting to make it a successful year in campus, intramural and social activities. The varsity football team was also represented in the hall this year.

There is great pride in living in Gregson because of its ideal facilities. Practical room furnishings, a large lounge, laundry room, recreation room, snack bar, mail room and dining hall makes this one of the best places for a college man to live.

With the large dining room facilities, several good parties are held there each year. All the residents take an enthusiastic part to make these parties entertaining.

There is also much enthusiasm among residents in their scholastic standing. Last year Gregson ranked fourth among the organized men's houses.

RAZORBACK HALL

Higher literature sets the pace in the entertainment field at Razorback.

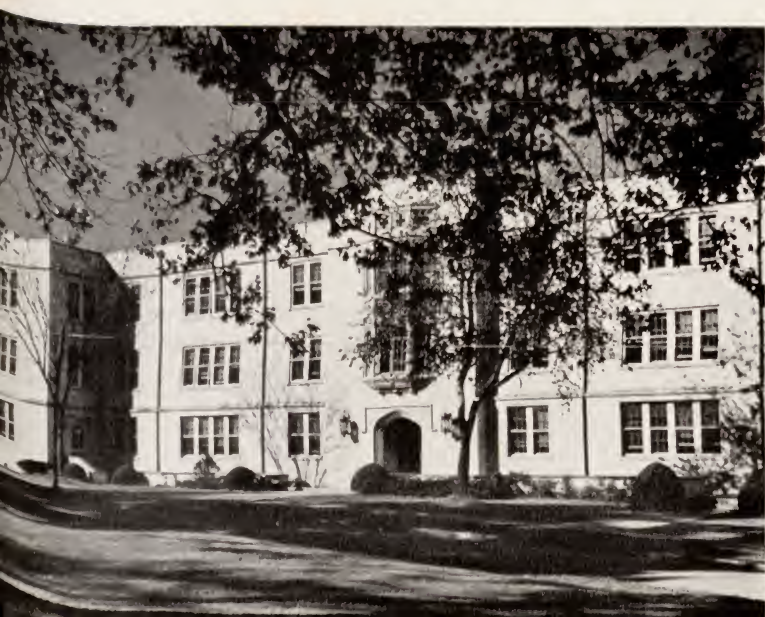

Razorback Hall, although one of the older men's residence halls on the campus, is still one of the most comfortable and best furnished. Of the 108 boys living in the hall, 30 are athletes. One of the marked changes this year was the moving of the varsity football and basketball players to other parts of the campus. This year a number of freshman students are also living in the hall.

The residents of Razorback Hall are governed by a slate of four officers elected by popular vote and 12 appointed councilmen. They are assisted by three counselors.

Razorback has entries in all intramural sports.

One of the improvements planned for the hall is the conversion of the old cafeteria into a lounge and study room.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

MARY JOHN SKILLERN
President of Epsilon Chapter of
Zeta Tau Alpha

Studies can be abandoned at any time if the conversation is interesting enough.

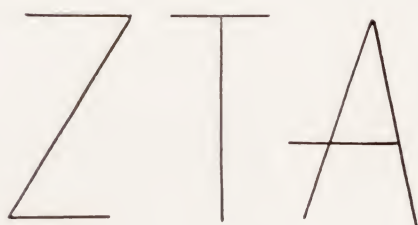

Founded nationally in 1898 and locally in 1903, Zeta Tau Alpha began the 1951 academic year with renewed interest and vigor.

The social season in the big white house on Oakland Avenue began in October when the initiates honored the new pledges with a sweater hop in the ballroom of the Student Union. A "Fall For Zeta" theme was carried out for the dance.

An open house for the football team and coaches and Zeta's 53rd Founder's Day Banquet marked the end of October's social calendar.

The Christmas holidays began with a festive dinner-dance at the chapter house.

With finals over, the new semester began with the colorful and ever thrilling Mardi Gras Ball. The initiation banquet in March was especially enjoyed by the members who had recently been initiated.

Cooperation and friendliness, rather than competition, is sought by the sororities on the campus through the Pan Hellenic Council. Pan Hellenic is an organization composed of the president and the rush chairman of each sorority, and it attempts to enhance understanding of each group through statewide publicity and to establish effective rules of rush.

Composed of two members from each of the chapters on the campus, the pledge council functions as an assembly where various pledge activities are discussed. Their project for the year to take the place of the pledge "walkout" has been to aid the County Home.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

To aid the Greek letter organizations on the campus to mediate any differences which may arise between them, and to promote the best interest of the University of Arkansas is the purpose of the Inter-fraternity Council.

Two representatives from each of the social fraternities on the campus make up the membership of the Council. Meetings are held for the purpose of discussing fraternal problems and establishing policies twice each month.

Formulation of rush rules for the spring and fall seasons is one of the principal tasks of the Inter-fraternity Council. Is it their job to establish rules which will encourage uniform rush policies and cooperation among the fraternities.

It is the primary duty of the Council's officers to work in close cooperation with the Dean of Men and all other administrative personnel in social and business matters concerning the relationship of the fraternities with the University.

There are sixteen social fraternities at the University of Arkansas. These are: Acacia, Alpha Gamma Rho, Alpha Tau Omega, Delta Sigma Phi, Kappa Alpha, Kappa Sigma, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Delta Theta, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Chi, Sigma Nu, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Pi, Theta Tau, and Zeta Beta Tau.

Each of the fraternities function independently of the other, but through the Inter-fraternity Council they are able to coordinate their efforts toward more just policies and fairer practices. It is through the Council, as a common meeting ground, that the fraternities are able to enjoy fairness in competition with each other.

The Council's slate of officers this year consisted of: Field Wasson, president; Rodney Baker, vice-president; James McGhee, secretary, and Sam Boyce, treasurer.

Industrious pledges set to work on repairing battered house.

Alpha Xi chapter of Alpha Tau Omega was installed on the campus of the University in April of 1882. Although forced to go inactive shortly afterward, the chapter was reinstalled March 31, 1951.

One of the outstanding achievements of ATO this year was its introduction of "Help Week" to the campus and the encouragement given other campus organizations in a campus-wide Help Week program.

ATO's first Help Week project was the renovation of the home of a destitute family. The fraternity's entire membership turned its efforts toward this and other constructive programs designed to better the school community.

Highlights of Alpha Tau Omega's social events included the annual Spring outing, Christmas, and Come-As-You-Are parties.

KAs look over record collection before an evening of study gets under way.

This year marks the completion of the KA's new house on Stadium Drive, built with the help of the University and 600 KA alumni. The new house will add to the comfort and enjoyment of about 70 KA's.

Alpha Omicron chapter was founded at the University in 1895, to become the third fraternity on the campus. Since then it has followed the customs and traditions of the National Order which are in line with those of the Old South.

The two outstanding social functions of the year are the Convivial Ball in commemoration of Founder Robert E. Lee, and the Dixie Ball which follows the theme of the Confederacy. Other parties include one at Christmas and the Pig Alle party which follows a French theme.

Reading over the shoulder is not considered apropos in most circumstances,

PHI DELTA THETA

JIM EMERY
President of Arkansas Alpha of Phi Delta Theta

Arkansas Alpha, the Centennial chapter of Phi Delta Theta, has completed another big year in its rapid growth on the University of Arkansas campus.

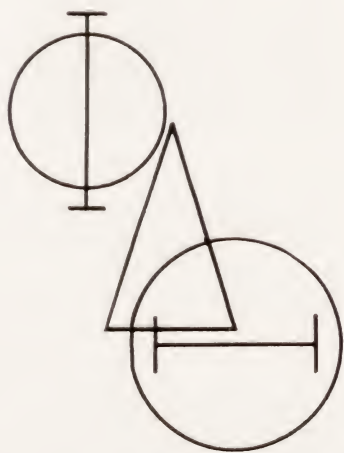

The chapter's greatest advance since its establishment in 1948 was the acquisition of its new house at 410 Arkansas Avenue. The new house provides adequate housing and dining facilities for the entire chapter as well as for the new house-mother, Mrs. Alex Caven of Little Rock.

Phi Delta Theta was again outstanding in the intramural activities.

The Buccaneer's Ball, Phi Delt's big spring formal, and the She Delta Theta party were the Phis two largest socials of the year.

The Phis also had many outstanding men representing them on the campus this year.

BRUCE MURPHY
President of Alpha Upsilon Chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon

The only possible explanation of this picture is . . . they must be pledges.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded on March 9, 1856 by a group of eight close friends. In their words, SAE was to be eternal, dynamic and humanistic.

SAE has 131 chapters, nearly 83,000 initiates and is the largest college fraternity in the United States. National headquarters for the fraternity is the Levere Memorial Temple at Evanston, Ill.

Arkansas Alpha Upsilon chapter was founded in 1894. With the remodeling of all the interior of their house last summer, SAE began the year with added spirit and cooperation. They also had a new housemother, Mrs. Pud Bracy.

SAE is proud to be represented on the varsity football team by Bill Jurney, Jack Troxell, Bob Linebarier and Larry Hogue. Joel Lucke is also active in varsity basketball.

The Sigs read everything from Plato and Aristotle to the Batesville Guard.

Sigma Chi was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, on September 28, 1855. The fraternity is a member of the Miami Triad which consists of Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Chi.

Omega Omega chapter was founded at the University in 1905. The chapter house, a large buff brick colonial type structure, is located at the corner of Maple and Vandeventer Streets. This year the Sigs built a patio on the back of the house, thus adding another facility for the entertainment of members and their friends.

At the Christmas party the Sigs presented their housemother, Mrs. W. W. Scroggin, with a new car as a token of appreciation for her help and guidance during the past years.

Tops on the social calendar for the year were the annual winter formal and the Sweetheart formal.

The Arkansas chapter of Zeta Beta Tau is now in its third year of campus participation. It is the youngest chapter of the fraternity, and has high hopes of eventually building and owning its own home.

The chapter has tried to obtain a program that is a balance between social life, athletics, and scholarship work, with the emphasis on the latter. Last year the chapter received the highest grade point on the campus.

This year's social events were topped by a trip to Pine Bluff, where the fraternity combined social and rushing interests. Blue Key movie, "Life at the U of A", was shown to a group of Arkansas Jewish youths. Other social events consisted of fraternity dinners, football listening parties and house dances.

RAZORBACK BAND

"When you first think of the University of Arkansas, you naturally think of two things, the football team and the Razorback band," someone once remarked. And this is true, for the Razorback band, besides being downright pleasant to listen to, is one of the University's best public relation agents.

Besides playing for all the home football and basketball games, the band accompanied the football team and a special train of students to the Arkansas-Southern Methodist game at Dallas.

Appearing alternately as separate small "combos" and in full strength, the Razorback band played at each of the home basketball games, giving its best by way of entertainment and encouragement to both team and crowd.

Band Director E. J. Marty is starting a move to get the band new uniforms. "Many of the present band uniforms have faded and shrunk from use over a period of years," he said.

Spirit is the business of these red and white clad young ladies called the Rootin' Rubes, who have become a tradition at the University since they were first organized as a sister organization to ABC in 1925. Each year, ten girls are selected from each of the different houses on the campus to form the nucleus of this group. From its numbers are chosen the Homecoming queen and her court.

STUDENT CHRISTIAN COUNCIL

The Student Christian Council, which is composed of two student representatives from each of the city churches and representatives from both the YMCA and YWCA, seeks to bring about a closer fellowship between church and school. It offers an opportunity for these people to obtain training and recreation at the same time.

...from SEEDLINGS to SAW LOGS to SINEWS of INDUSTRY a perpetual cycle at CROSSETT

Sinews for America's industrial strength are manufactured from trees by The Crossett Companies. While The Crossett Companies utilize the whole of each tree, including the bark, a problem of supply would be acute without new forests to replace former cuttings. This replacement is accomplished by constantly planting seedlings, caring for them, and harvesting the trees selectively. In this way, the cycle is perpetuated and jobs are assured in the years ahead for the youth of our state.

Ozan Pine is fine Arkansas Soft Pine—long famous for its uniform softness and workability. Ozan Pine comes from logs harvested from Ozan tree-farm lands, from which mature trees are removed to make room for vigorous younger growth that is destined to provide future Ozan saw logs.

All Ozan Pine is well manufactured, by experienced, carefully-supervised personnel.

Ozan Pine is 100% stored and loaded under cover. To prevent damage in transit, after loading is completed, a steel strap is tightened around the lumber in each end of the Ozan loaded car, holding the stock securely in position.

MY CREED

I do not choose to be a common man. It is my right to be uncommon—if I can. I seek opportunity—not security. I do not wish to be a kept citizen, humbled and dulled by having the state look after me. I want to take the calculated risk; to dream and to build, to fail and to succeed. I refuse to barter incentive for a dole. I prefer the challenges of life to the guaranteed existence; the thrill of fulfillment to the stale calm of Utopia. I will not trade freedom for beneficence nor my dignity for a handout. I will never cower before any master nor bend to any threat. It is my heritage to stand erect, proud and unafraid; to think and act for myself, to enjoy the benefit of my creation and to face the world boldly and say, "this I have done." All this is what it means to be an American. — Dean Alfance.

Arkansas Traveler®
ALUMINUM BOATS
 with the
Cushion-Aire-Glide Hull®

The Finest Outboard Fleet In The World!

THE SENSATION OF ALL OUTBOARDS!

You've never seen or ridden in an outboard boat like an Arkansas Traveler! They're literally amazing on any kind of water, for any kind of sport.

The remarkable Cushion-Aire-Glide Hulls are out of this world for smooth riding and comfort. For beauty, styling and speed, there's nothing can match them. Integral spray rails and bilge keels, and improved internal bracing, make them stronger, more rigid than any metal boat afloat for size and price. Round Chines on all semi-V models give vastly better maneuverability and seaworthiness.

You'll find them safer and more stable, wider, roomier and more buoyant. Fine wood seats and gunwales protect against burns in summer, freezing discomfort in winter. And there's a dozen other features that make them standouts in quality—in performance—in value.

No matter how modest your budget—no matter what your pleasure—you'll find an Arkansas Traveler that will give you everything you want in an outboard boat. They're sensational!

The Sensational Cushion-Aire-Glide

Arkansas Traveler's exclusive reinforcing "bilge keels", extending along three-fourths of the hull bottom, act as gliders that create a foaming cushion of air and water between the keels upon which the boat rides. Speed is increased—all water slap and pounding are virtually eliminated. A revelation in smooth, quiet, cushioned riding!
